

VERMONT

Vermont received $69,885 in federal funding for abstinence-only-until-marriage programs in Fiscal Year 2004.¹

Vermont Sexuality Education Law

The Vermont Education Code includes sexuality education as part of its comprehensive health program. This program must be taught in elementary and secondary schools. The comprehensive health program has 10 parts, four of which are:

- Body structure and function, including the physical, psychosocial and psychological basis of human development, sexuality and reproduction;
- Disease, such as HIV infection, other sexually transmitted diseases (STDs), as well as other communicable diseases, and the prevention of disease;
- Family health and mental health, including instruction which promotes the development of responsible personal behavior involving decision making about sexual activity including abstinence; skills which strengthen existing family ties involving communication, cooperation, and interaction between parents and students; and instruction to aid in the establishment of strong family life in the future, thereby contributing to the enrichment of the community; and
- Human growth and development, including understanding the physical, emotional, and social elements of individual development and interpersonal relationships including instruction in parenting methods and styles. This shall include information regarding the possible outcomes of premature sexual activity, contraceptives, adolescent pregnancy, childbirth, adoption, and abortion.

Local school districts may establish a “comprehensive health education community advisory council” to assist the school board in developing and deciding upon health curricula.

Parents or guardians may remove their children from a sexuality education class if the content is in conflict with the parent’s or guardian’s religious beliefs. This is referred to as an “opt-out” policy.

See Vermont Statute, Title 16, Part 1, Chapter 1, Subchapter 7, Sections 131, 132, 133, 134, and 135.

Title V Abstinence-Only-Until-Marriage Funding

Vermont received $69,885 in federal Title V abstinence-only-until-marriage funding in Fiscal Year 2004. The Title V abstinence-only-until-marriage grant requires states to provide three state-raised dollars or the equivalent in services for every four federal dollars received. The state match can be provided in part or in full by local groups. Vermont matches the federal funding with $52,698 in state funds. The Vermont Department of Health oversees the funding along with an advisory committee that includes Planned Parenthood of Northern New England, staff from Senator Jim Jeffords’ (I) and Senator Patrick Leahy’s (D) offices, and representatives from various schools throughout the state.

Vermont uses its funding for a statewide media campaign entitled There For Me that targets youth ages 10 to 14 and their parents. The goal of the campaign is to promote parent/child communication around risk-taking behaviors such as early sexual behavior and alcohol, specifically how drug and alcohol use increases vulnerability to sexual advances. This campaign emphasizes point G of the federal A-H definition of “abstinence education”: “teaches young people how to reject sexual advances and how alcohol and drug use increases vulnerability to sexual advances.” This campaign is currently being expanded to include pamphlets for physicians and primary care doctors of adolescents.

Special Projects of Regional and National Significance—Community Based Abstinence Education (SPRANS–CBAE)⁵ and Adolescent Family Life Act (AFLA) Grantees

There are no SPRANS–CBAE or AFLA grantees in Vermont.

⁵ In FY 2004 SPRANS–CBAE was administered within the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) by the Maternal and Child Health Bureau. In FY 2005 this funding stream was moved to HHS' Administration for Children and Families and is now referred to simply as Community Based Abstinence Education (CBAE).
